Equipment guidelines: Tips to make your travel more enjoyable.

Clothing and equipment will vary depending on time of year and type of hunt. It is important to always think in terms of layering, loose fitting, quiet quality material such as Gore-tex or wool. For those items listed as optional, please contact us prior to your hunt start. It's not the personal clothing items that add extra weight to your packs; it's all the items like snacks, extra batteries and gadgets. Our guides have everything in the way of optics, etc. More often than not clients optional equipment never leaves the base camp.

There are no clothing color requirements to legally hunt in British Columbia and camouflage clothing is not necessary.
